Editor: If President Johnson did order the CIA to arrange the Buddhist demonstrations in Saigon as a background for withdrawal of our troops it is in my humble opinion the smartest move he has made in the entire Southeast Asia mess.

Even if it makes a hero of Johnson and results in four more years of him after 1968 the price is really not too high for having our boys back home.

It is to be hoped none of the 40-plus other commitments we have scattered around the World break loose requiring further sacrifices of American lives as were made in Korea and Viet Nam.

The idea that this once great nation can police the peoples of the World while supporting them in the style to which we conditioned them impresses me as a marijuana dream. We have engaged in four wars during the past 50 years, none of which were really our concern.

We were suckered into all four and it is about time we started taking smart pills and vote into high office those concerned with the well-being of our own people rather than our image abroad.

The only image worth a hoot at home or abroad is plain old fashioned respect which we have long since lost.
